Dr. Jeannie M. Woods

Dr. Jeannie M. Woods is a theatre scholar, actor, director, and arts educator. She earned her Ph.D. in Theatre from the City University of New York. She is a graduate of the Harvard University Institute for Management and Leadership in Education. She currently teaches theatre history, acting and directing and serves as the Honors Director for the Department of Theatre and Dance. She is also the Artistic Director of the Starry Night Repertory Theatre, a nonprofit theatre she founded in Macomb in 2009. Dr. Woods was a Professor of Theatre at Winthrop University for 17 years, where she was named Outstanding Junior Professor of 1995 and received Presidential Citations in 1998 and 2001. At Winthrop Dr. Woods served 5 years as Associate Dean of the College of Visual and Performing Arts and was Director of the Office for Effective Teaching. Dr. Woods served as Vice President of Professional Development for the Association for Theatre in Higher Education from 2003-2007. From 1998-99 Dr. Woods was a Senior Fulbright Lecturer at the Taipei National University of the Arts.

Dr. Woods has traveled around the world on a ship, teaching theatre for Semester at Sea and she has twice been a Guest Artist at the Shanghai Theatre Academy. In 2009, Dr Woods was selected as a professional stage director to participate in the Directors Lab of Chicago. This summer she will participate in the International Directors Symposium in Italy. Dr. Woods is the author of numerous articles and theatre reviews and two books: Theatre to Change Men's Souls—The Artistry of Adrian Hall and Maureen Stapleton: A Bio-Bibliography.
Dr. Tammie L. Walker

Dr. Tammie Walker, Professor of Piano at Western Illinois University, received the B.M. degree in Piano Performance, summa cum laude, from the University of Wisconsin at Eau Claire, where she studied with Penelope Cecchini, and the M.M. and D.M.A. degrees in Piano Performance and Literature from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign, where she studied with Ian Hobson and was a winner of the University of Illinois Concerto Competition. An active solo and collaborative pianist, Dr. Walker has concertized throughout the continental U.S., Hawaii, England, Scotland and Germany.

Dr. Walker is an active clinician and adjudicator, recently serving on final-round international juries for the World Piano Pedagogy Conference Piano Competition in Atlanta, Georgia and Las Vegas, Nevada. She is currently Coordinator of the Music Teachers National Association (MTNA) Collegiate Competitions for the state of Illinois. An interview with Dr. Walker was published in the January, 2006 issue of The Piano journal in Korea, and she was recently featured in an article in International Piano magazine. Her article entitled “The Status of the BM-Piano Performance Degree” was published in the April/May 2008 issue of the American Music Teacher journal. Tammie Walker resides in Macomb, IL with her husband Chad (a musical instrument repair technician), and their four children (Sophia, Bennett and twins Lucy & Grace). Dr. Walker has been on the piano faculty at WIU since 1998 and is coordinator of the keyboard area.

Dr. Lori Baker-Sperry

Dr. Lori Baker-Sperry, (Ph.D., sociology, Purdue University), is an Associate Professor of Women's Studies at Western Illinois University. Her research focuses on the study of children and children’s literature, particularly highlighting issues of agency and the socialization of girls. She is also recently active in scholarship on a feminist theory of food studies. Baker-Sperry teaches numerous women’s studies courses, including introductory and advanced feminist theory, women in popular culture, and women and crime.

Dr. Lori Baker-Sperry has worked for over four years as Assessment Facilitator for Western Illinois University and regularly presents WIU’s achievements in assessment of student learning at the Higher Learning Commission’s annual conference. Her duties include facilitating major and graduate assessment at Western, as well as assessment of general education and providing external accreditation support. Baker-Sperry received the CAS Award for Outstanding Service for 2008-2009.
Dr. Marcia Jean Carter has held management positions in public agencies, outdoor education centers, and youth-serving agencies with individuals with and without disabilities as well as coordinating undergraduate and graduate programs in higher education. She received her bachelor’s degree from Hanover College, masters from Indiana State University and doctorate from Indiana University. Dr. Carter has served as President of the National Therapeutic Recreation Society, American Association for Leisure and Recreation and the American Leisure Academy.

Dr. Carter has authored or co-authored several manuals and texts: Effective Management in Therapeutic Recreation Service; Therapeutic Recreation in the Community: An Inclusive Approach; Therapeutic Recreation: A Practical Approach; Therapeutic Recreation Education: Challenges and Changes; and Designing Instructional Swim Programs for Individuals with Disabilities. At the state and national levels she has been the recipient of several awards including: Therapeutic Recreator of the Year, Colorado; J. B. Nash Scholar and Honor Awards, American Association for Leisure and Recreation; Distinguished Service Award, National Therapeutic Recreation Society; Distinguished Fellow Award, American Therapeutic Recreation Association; and Palaestra, 1990’s Decade of Leadership in Disability Sport, Adapted Physical Education, & Therapeutic Recreation.

Dr. Christopher Sutton is a professor of Geography and has been a faculty member at WIU since 1998. Raised in Illinois, he received his bachelor’s and master’s degrees from Western Illinois University and his Ph.D. from University of Denver. He teaches cartography, urban geography, world regional geography, and research methods. The author of numerous research articles which have appeared in leading geography journals, Dr. Sutton is the co-author of the Student Atlas of World Politics and the forthcoming Student Atlas of World Geography. He also has authored educational materials including three instructor’s manuals, a web site to accompany a leading world regional geography textbook, and mapping exercises to accompany a cartography textbook.

Dr. Sutton serves as an advisory board member for the book Annual Editions: Environment and also for WIU’s Institute for Environmental Studies. He is the Series Editor for Geography for McGraw-Hill’s seven regional Global Studies books. An active member of the university, professional and civic organizations, Dr. Sutton is co-chairing the WIU’s accreditation self-study, is the co-advisor for the WIU chapter of the Golden Key International Honor Society, has served as president of the Illinois Geographical Society and is currently the president of the Macomb Morning Rotary Club. In 2006, he was the recipient of the Provost’s Award for Excellence in Teaching with Technology.
Dr. William J. Polley

Dr. Bill Polley received his BA in mathematics and economics from Concordia College in Moorhead, Minnesota in 1994 and his Ph.D. from The University of Iowa in 1999. From 1999 to 2005, he was an assistant professor of economics at Bradley University in Peoria, Illinois. In 2005, he joined the faculty of Western Illinois University where he teaches courses in macroeconomics and serves as the adviser for the MA program in economics. He also coaches the university's "Fed Challenge" team in which students prepare research on monetary policy and present it to a panel of judges including Federal Reserve economists. He has served as a judge for the high school version of the "Fed Challenge."

Dr. Polley’s main research interests are in international economics, macroeconomics, and applications of dynamic programming techniques. Yet his interests have broadened in recent years to include economic history, the economics of religion, and the economics of sports. He maintains a web page which includes a blog about economic issues. His blog has been cited by a number of national media outlets including the Wall Street Journal online. Always endeavoring to engage in teaching economics even beyond the classroom, he enjoys speaking to the media, community organizations, and campus groups about economic issues.

Dr. Michael P. Godard

Dr. Mike Godard is a faculty member in the Department of Kinesiology and also serves as a faculty research associate for the Center for Innovation in Teaching and Research. He received his Ph.D. in Human Bioenergetics from Ball State University, his M.A. in Exercise Physiology from Adelphi University and his B.S. from Castleton State College in Exercise Science with a minor in Health. Dr. Godard has published over 25-refereed articles and has obtained numerous grants to support his research over the years.

Dr. Godard was awarded fellow status from the American College of Sports Medicine in 2006. He has served on the board of directors for both Central States and Midwest chapter’s of the American College of Sports Medicine and serves on several national professional committees for this organization. Dr. Godard has also served as a consultant for pharmaceutical/nutraceutical companies and several fitness/performance related publications. Additionally, he volunteers his time throughout the Macomb community serving on the Board of Directors for both the Macomb Little League Association and the YMCA Dolphins Swim Team and serves as an elder at his church – The Crossing. He is married to Kathryn Godard and has two boys Grant and Lance.
Dr. James T. Kenny

Dr. James Kenny earned his marketing Ph.D. from Oklahoma State University in 1992. He was a four-time recipient of the McAlister Scottish Rite Fellowship for doctoral students. He completed his academic career by being selected for the American Marketing Association Doctoral Consortium Fellowship to Harvard University.

Dr. Kenny teaches and researches in the areas of Strategic Marketing, Professional Selling and Sales Management. During his nineteen years at WIU, he has been nominated for Teacher of the Year twelve times and won twice. Additionally, he has won two Faculty Excellence awards. He has published and presented papers in the areas of strategic marketing planning, transportation brokerage, and professional selling.

Professionally, Dr. Kenny has provided consulting services for over five-dozen firms and trade associations nationwide. His client list includes firms such as UPS World Wide Logistics, Landstar, and Total Quality Logistics. Additionally, he has served as a research fellow for international consulting firms, McKinsey & Co. and AT Kearney. Dr. Kenny also has served on the Board of Directors for the Warehouse Education Research Council. He was presented the 2009 Horizon Award for lifetime service to the Transportation Intermediaries Association (TIA). He won the 2001 President’s Service Award from the Certified Professional Insurance Association for his Marketing Audit Program and the 1996 Outstanding Service Award from TIA for his Consultative Sales Program.

Dr. Peppi M. Kenny

Dr. Peppi Kenny came to Western Illinois University in 1991 after completing her Ph.D. in finance at Oklahoma State University. She is a full professor of finance at Western Illinois University. During her tenure at WIU, she has taught both graduate and undergraduate classes in introductory and advanced corporate finance, investment management, financial derivatives, portfolio management, personal finance, and introduction to business.

Dr. Kenny’s teaching contributions have been recognized through multiple channels. She has been awarded Professor of the year by Beta Gamma Sigma and Delta Sigma Pi. She has also received an Outstanding Teaching award from WIU’s College of Business and Technology as well as two Faculty Excellence Awards.

Dr. Kenny has researched in the areas of institutions and investments. Her most recent research has investigated Jim Cramer’s recommendations on the CNBC program Mad Money. Her recent work has been published in The Quarterly Review of Economics and Finance and Research in Finance. Dr. Kenny has received six research grants at WIU and the “Best Paper in Investments” award in 2007 from the Academy of Finance.

Dr. Kenny takes an active service role in the university and community as well. Besides serving on multiple committees, she has served as a volunteer reader for the visually impaired, assisted with Loaves and Fishes, and served on the finance committee and home and school committee at her church. In addition, Dr. Kenny serves on the editorial review board for Financial Management and The Journal of Business and Economic Perspectives.
