Western Illinois University’s Bachelor of Arts in General Studies (BGS) degree program provides students with the opportunity to earn a regionally-accredited undergraduate non-majored degree that is affordable, flexible, and available fully online.

The BGS degree program is a non-majored baccalaureate program which requires 120 semester hours, including 40 semester hours earned at the upper-division level. A minimum of 30 semester hours must be earned through Western. Due to flexible degree requirements, the BGS degree may be achieved completely online.

Emphases of Study (Minors)
A personalized program of study is designed by the student in consultation with a BGS advisor. Minors are not required for BGS but may be possible within your degree plan. Academic requirements for minors are identified in the Western Illinois University Undergraduate Catalog at wiu.edu/catalog.

The following online minors are determined each semester by college deans and academic program chairpersons. For an updated list of online minors, see wiu.edu/distance_learning/bachelor_of_arts_in_general_studies/online_minors.php.

Scholarships
Financial assistance may be available through grants, loans, scholarships, and VA benefits. Actively enrolled BGS students may be eligible for a limited number of alumni scholarships through the BGS degree program. Detailed information on scholarships is available through Western’s Scholarship Office at (309) 298-2001 or online at wiu.edu/scholarship.
Military Friendly
Western Illinois University is designated as a Military Friendly School by “GI Jobs” Magazine and is featured in the “Guide to Military Friendly Schools.” In addition, Western has been selected as a Best for Vets College by “Military Times EDGE” magazine.

The BGS degree program serves the unique needs of the military, military veterans, and military families. Through its BGS degree, Western is a Servicemembers Opportunity College (SOC) and accepts ACE Guide-evaluated military training and CLEP, Excelsior, and DSST examinations.

“Being a nontraditional student, I have work experience that a traditional college student does not have. The BGS program has allowed me to take advantage of this experience and transfer it to college credit. The program has awarded academic credit for my military training and schools as well as the community college courses I have taken over the years. My experience and credit, along with the flexibility of taking online and evening classes, will allow me to earn my undergraduate degree next year. The academic advisors in the BGS program work hard to help nontraditional students achieve their goals while managing a career. They coordinate with faculty and departments to provide pertinent classes that fit the active lifestyle of students with full-time employment and families.”

Transfer Students
The BGS degree program has partnered with several Illinois and Iowa community colleges to allow community college students maximum transferability from all associate degree programs to Western’s BGS degree program. A full list of partnerships can be found at wiu.edu/distance.learning/partnerships.php.

After Graduation
Graduates have successfully used the BGS degree to gain entry-level jobs in a variety of business, industrial, government, and human services organizations. Most graduates are already involved in a career and need the academic credential for promotions or other career opportunities. A significant number of graduates continue to post-baccalaureate studies, resulting in graduate degrees or professional certifications. Some graduates earn the degree for personal reasons unrelated to a career or to pursuing advanced degrees.
