Catalog Description

180 College Writing I. (3) (General Education/ Communication Skills) Introduction to college writing, with an emphasis on the writing process, reflective writing, and critical thinking. All sections taught with word processors. Graded A, A-, B+, B, B-, C+, C, U, F. IAI: C1 900.

Course Objectives

In English 180, you will be introduced to writing as a social activity with the goal of providing you with the knowledge you need to learn how to write. Specifically, we will focus on the following primary objectives:

- Writing Processes: You will test and adapt writing processes to meet the demands of varying genres and rhetorical situations.
- Discourse Communities: You will learn to define and identify different discourse communities, with a special emphasis on describing and analyzing how community shapes writing, especially in civic contexts.
- Rhetorics: You will identify and analyze the elements of the rhetorical situation (exigence, audience, and context) and will apply that knowledge to composing your own texts.
- Genres: You will analyze how genre functions as a typified response to a recurring situation, with special emphasis on applying conventions rhetorically.
- Critical Thinking, Reading, and Research: You will use critical thinking, reading, and research strategies to compose texts that participate in ongoing conversations, from both academic and extracurricular communities, with special emphasis on integrating your ideas with field research and appropriate secondary sources.

For a complete list of the standard objectives for English 180, see the Writing Program's handout provided in .pdf form here: <http://www.wiu.edu/cas/english/writing/F15%20ENG%20180%20Handout.pdf>.

Over the course of the semester, you will also work to cultivate the following habits of mind that have been identified as essential for successful college writing:

- Curiosity – the desire to know more about the world.
- Openness – the willingness to consider new ways of being and thinking in the world.
- Engagement – a sense of investment and involvement in learning.
- Creativity – the ability to use novel approaches for generating, investigating, and representing ideas.
- Persistence – the ability to sustain interest in and attention to short- and long-term projects.
- Responsibility – the ability to take ownership of one's actions and understand the consequences of those actions for oneself and others.
- Flexibility – the ability to adapt to situations, expectations, or demands.
- Metacognition – the ability to reflect on one's own thinking as well as on the individual and cultural processes used to structure knowledge.

For more information on the habits of mind, please see the Council of Writing Program Administrators' "Framework for Success in Postsecondary Writing."

Note: If you were force-enrolled in this course, you will need the permission of the instructor and the Director of Writing in order to drop. If you wish to drop this course you will need to speak with me first, and I will forward your request to the Director for consideration (permission is not granted automatically). Because you need permission to drop, you should begin the drop process early.

Course Policies

1. Attendance/Class Participation:

1a. Although I may provide background and context for our reading at the start of each class period, the course will rely upon your active participation and your own exploration of our texts. Because we will be doing a good deal of writing in class and because our class discussions depend upon everyone's thoughtful contributions, it is essential that you maintain regular attendance and that you come prepared to discuss the reading material each day. You are permitted seven absences over the semester for this course: for each absence beyond seven, your final grade will be lowered one full letter grade. I do not distinguish between excused and unexcused absences, so please plan accordingly. If you are going to be absent for more than one class period, you should alert me via email prior to your absence so that we can plan ahead. In addition to the above policy, any absence will be detrimental to your class participation grade. Tardiness (defined as arriving more than five minutes late to class) will negatively affect your class participation grade, so please arrive promptly to class. Four tardies will count as one absence. If you arrive more than fifteen minutes late to class, you will be counted absent. Leaving class early will also count as a tardy; leaving class more than fifteen minutes early will count as an absence. This attendance policy has been established by the Writing Program Director.

1b. As per university policy, students missing class for observation of a religious holiday must notify me at least five calendar days prior to the absence so that I can arrange accommodations. Student athletes must meet with me at the beginning of the semester to review sports-related absences and develop an accommodation plan. Students with military obligations should contact me as soon as they know about those obligations so that we can develop an accommodation plan.

1c. Your class participation grade is worth 50 points (5%) of your final grade. You are expected to be a willing and thoughtful contributor to class discussion. As you do your reading for class, you should prepare questions and comments about the reading. Each class you must come prepared with all required texts (books and printouts), answer questions both out loud and in writing, pose new questions, and solicit conversation from your peers. Your class participation grade will be lowered if you do not bring the required texts necessary for each class discussion. A healthy classroom environment is one in which each person feels comfortable expressing his or her opinion. Respect for your peers and instructor is a must. I will not tolerate rude, disruptive, or inconsiderate behavior, which includes texting. Please put cell phones on vibrate and stash them away during class. Improper use of technology (e.g. texting, listening to music, and non-class-related computer use in the lab) will result in one warning before affecting your participation grade. Your class participation grade will also be lowered if you are disruptive to the classroom climate or if you do not participate at all. Students engaging in disruptive behavior will be asked to cease the behavior once before being required to leave the classroom. Please see WIU's Disruptive Student in Class Policy: <http://www.wiu.edu/vpas/policies/disrupst.php>.

2. Quizzes and Freewrite Journal Entries: In order to ensure that all assignments are read, I will begin most classes with quizzes or freewrites. Quizzes and freewrites are not designed to trick you—if you read and digest the assignment you will do fine. Quizzes and freewrites will be graded from 1-5, corresponding to F-A. Quizzes and freewrites are worth 100 points (10%) of your final grade. If you are absent you may not make up a quiz or freewrite. At the end of the semester I will replace your lowest scores with a 5 for each allowed absences you did not use.

3. Peer Review Workshops: You will participate in five peer review workshops during this class. You will be graded on your own complete draft as well as your comments on other students' drafts. Drafts will be spot-checked at the beginning of each peer review. If you do not have a complete draft, you will be asked to leave, earning a 0 on that Peer Review and draft. This will also be considered an absence. Your peer review workshop grade makes up 100 points (10%) of your final grade. Drafts and peer review worksheets will be graded from 1-10 (see Rubrics). Drafts and peer review worksheets for Peer Reviews 1, 3, and 5 will be submitted electronically at the end of class on peer review day. Drafts and peer review worksheets for Peer Reviews 2 and 4 will be submitted in class on the date indicated on the schedule. If you are absent on the day of peer review, peer review workshops can be made up for partial credit, but you must arrange this with me ahead of time (prior to your absence).

4. Reflections: You will write a one-page reflection after five of your writing assignments. Reflection assignments will be provided on Western Online (WO). Reflections should be typed and submitted upon completion to WO. Reflections will be graded from 1-20 (see Rubrics), and will be worth 100 points (10%) of your final grade.

5. Conferences: Before the Literacy Essay and Exploration of a Problem Assignment you will be required to attend a conference with me (see me at office hours or by appointment) to discuss your writing. I will tell you ahead of time what to bring to each conference. Failure to attend any conference will be considered an absence. During the rest of the semester, you are welcome to drop by during my office hours or schedule a conference.

6. Writing Center: The Writing Center is available to all students to assist with any aspect of the writing process. I encourage you to make use of this valuable resource. Here is the Writing Center webpage with its mission statement, hours, and locations of service:
http://www.wiu.edu/university_writing_center/

7. Papers:

7a. Over the course of the semester, you will complete four formal assignments in response to specific prompts. Assignment one, a literacy essay (600-900 words), will be worth 100 points (10%) of your final grade. Assignment two, a visual essay (4-5 images plus 400-500 words), will be worth 100 points (10%) of your final grade. Assignment three, an annotated bibliography, will be worth 100 points (10%) of your final grade. Assignment four, an exploration of a problem (1,600-1,800 words), will be worth 150 points (15%) of your final grade. You will also submit a group PowerPoint presentation, worth 100 points (10%) of your final grade. With each assignment, I will hand out a format sheet to follow, which will detail the guidelines for that particular assignment. Deviation from the guidelines will cause your grade to be lowered. Unless you make arrangements with me at least forty-eight hours in advance, late assignments will be marked down one letter grade for each day late; essays more than 5 days late will receive a "0." I will not discuss assignment grades until 24 hours after I return assignments to the class. You must make an appointment with me to discuss a grade.

7b. Papers will be submitted electronically on Western Online. Each format sheet will review how to submit the paper. If you are unsure about how to submit your paper, please speak with me well before the due date. Because you will submit papers electronically, you should make sure to save your work in several formats (on a hard drive, on a flash drive, by emailing the paper to yourself, by uploading to Google Docs or Dropbox). Technology problems are not an excuse for submitting a paper late. You will submit your papers as Word files (.doc or .docx); papers submitted in any other file format or corrupted files will be returned to you and considered late until re-submitted as a Word file.

7c. Academic integrity is an important part of our community at WIU; therefore, acts of plagiarism and cheating may result in failure for the course and referral for academic discipline: <http://www.wiu.edu/policies/acintegrity.php>. Please make note that double submission (submitting the same paper or part of a paper for more than one class) is considered a violation of academic integrity.

8. Portfolio: In lieu of a final exam, you will submit an ePortfolio of your work over the course of the semester. Portfolios will consist of two components: 1) A reflective essay on your writing, and 2) Artifacts you reference in your reflective essay (artifacts may include any of the following: rough drafts, final drafts with my comments; revisions; peer review worksheets; writing reflections; quizzes and freewrites). Note that it is imperative that you keep track of all of the work you do this semester so that you can compile a successful portfolio. Portfolios will be worth 100 points (10%) of your final grade.

9. Office Hours: My regular office hours are listed above. At those times I will be in my office available to meet with you to discuss any aspect of the course. Please do not hesitate to drop by my office or to contact me to make an appointment to meet if you cannot meet during my regular office hours.

10. Email: The best way to get in touch with me outside of class is by email. Over email you can make appointments to meet with me, and you can ask questions related to the assignments. Please bear in mind that I will need at least a day to reply to emails. You are responsible for checking your WIU email and Western Online accounts every day, since they will be my primary methods of communication with you outside of class.

11. Disability Resource Center: Students with disabilities: In accordance with University values and disability law, students with disabilities may request academic accommodations where there are aspects of a course that result in barriers to inclusion or accurate assessment of achievement. To file an official request for disability-related accommodations, please contact the Disability Resource Center at 309-298-2512, disability@wiu.edu or in 143 Memorial Hall. Please notify the instructor as soon as possible to ensure that this course is accessible to you in a timely manner.

12. Title IX: University values, Title IX, and other federal and state laws prohibit sex discrimination, including sexual assault/misconduct, dating/domestic violence, and stalking. If you, or someone you know, has been the victim of any of these offenses, we encourage you to report this to the Title IX Coordinator at 309-298-1977 or anonymously online at:

http://www.wiu.edu/equal_opportunity_and_access/request_form/index.php. If you disclose an incident to a faculty member, the faculty member must notify the Title IX Coordinator. The complete Title IX policy is available at: <http://www.wiu.edu/vpas/policies/titleIX.php>.

Please review your “Student Rights and Responsibilities” at <http://www.wiu.edu/provost/students> and see me if you have any questions.
