SATURDAY
SEMINAR
Spring 2017

---

10:00 am Conquering the Thesis Statement

Facilitator: Kirsten Dillender, Writing Center Consultant, Teaching Support Assistant

You may have heard that “all roads lead to Rome,” but what you may not know is that all sentences lead back to your thesis. Crafting a thesis statement can be intimidating--how can one sentence possibly capture the essence of your topic? Whether you're a freshman expected to write college papers for the first time, an SCM major assigned a research paper, or a student in the English department who wants to hone your writing skills, this workshop can help you conquer the thesis statement.

11:00 am Writing your Way into an Interview

Facilitator: Laura Winton, Writing Center Consultant, Teaching Support Assistant

It is job-hunting season for many of us. Maybe your resume needs updating, or maybe you have never made one before. Perhaps you have never written a cover letter. Those are just to say “here’s my resume,” aren’t they? Come to a workshop on career writing to get answers to this question and more!
