

Family Literacy and Technology Websites

Helping Your Child Learn to Read

<http://www.ed.gov/pubs/parents/Reading/index.html>

Article by Bernice Cullinan and Brad Bagert which provides families with basic information on literacy development and a variety of activities for children, infancy through age 10.

Early Childhood Educators and Family Web Corner

<http://www.nauticom.net/www/cokids>

Variety of links to articles on selecting quality literature for children, developmentally appropriate practices, educational issues, and links to resources and materials for families.

Bibliography of Resources for Parents of Disabled Children

<http://www.rit.edu/~easi/pubs/ezbib3.htm>

Resource information on special formats for materials, educational toys and play equipment, articles, books, magazines, a selected bibliography, and organizations for families of children with disabilities.

Supporting Family Participation - Circle of Inclusion

<http://www.circleofinclusion.org/pim/nine/support.html>

Circle of Inclusion provides strategies to facilitate meaningful participation of all families. Specific ideas for involving fathers are included.

Family Center on Technology and Disability

<http://fctd.ucp.org/fctd/aboutfctd.htm>

Information about the Center and the services it offers to families is described.

Computer Family Night

http://www.mcps.k12.md.us/curriculum/littlekids/cfn\_text.htm#implementation

Suggestions for activities for family night are provided by the Early Childhood Literacy Technology Project at Montgomery County Public Schools.

The Love of Reading Starts at Home

http://www.harcourt.com/parents/features/love\_reading\_starts\_home.html

Harcourt EarlyLearner provides tips for families to encourage reading at home.