

Medieval Times

- *Aliko. (1983). A medieval feast. New York: Harper & Row. Also available in French, Spanish, and as an audio recording.
- *Cox, P. R. [1994]. (2004). What were castles for? Tulsa, OK: EDC Publications. Also available in French.
- *Dobson, M. (1998). Medieval muck. New York: Oxford University Press.
- *Gee, R., & Ashman, I. [1982]. (1991). Living in castle times. Tulsa, OK: Usborne. Also available in German.
- *Gibbons, G. [1995]. (2000). Knights in shining armor. New York: Scholastic.
- Lasker, J. [1986]. (1989). A tournament of knights. New York: Harper and Row. Also available in Braille.
- *Rickard, G., & Bragg, M. (1989). Norman castles. New York: Bookwright Press.
- *Steele, P. [1994]. (2004). I wonder why castles had moats and other questions about long ago. Boston: Kingfisher Books. Also available Chinese and Spanish.
- *Tong, W. L., & Wilson, P. (1997). A three-dimensional medieval castle. New York: Viking.
- *Williams, B. [1994]. (1995). Forts and castles. New York: Viking Press. Also available in Chinese.
- *Wood, T. (1989). Castles. New York: Warwick Press.

*indicates a non-fiction book