

the next semester. This means if a course based on a campus wide software package (such as SPSS) is taught consecutive semesters, it is wise to check with the tech staff about the version that is available.

Please remember that what is available in the Macomb campus labs may not be available in the Quad Cities lab. If you are teaching in both locations, please contact both University Computer Support Services (309-298-1177) and the Quad Cities (309-762-9481) to verify the software and version available.

Classrooms

All of the classrooms at the Quad Cities are electronic, containing a computer, overhead projector, VCR/DVD, a document camera and speakers. Some are configured as "Distance Technology Rooms", having the capability of projecting the class to a facility outside of the Quad Cities Campus. Contact Christopher David for an orientation in your classroom.

WIU MVS

Western's administrative information system (MVS/WIUP). You will be using this system to access your employment records. It can be accessed at <http://mvs.wiu.edu>. Andrea will contact you for a lesson to access the system.

Computing Access for Faculty, Staff and Students

Faculty are provided computer accounts at WIU for access to:

- The Local Area Network (LAN) that provides: Mac, PC, and Windows applications and internet access.
- ECOM system that provides access to WIU UNIX services and campus e-mail. Access to mail will be converted to Zimbra in the first weeks of the semester. Both systems use the same user name.

Contact the WIU-QC Help Desk for an orientation to your account.
