TYPES OF AID

Grants & Scholarships are gift aid that do not have to be repaid by the student. These awards are often based on merit or financial need. Some examples include Western’s Commitment Scholarship, the Federal Pell Grant, and the Illinois MAP Grant.

Student Employment is a combination of two programs: regular student employment and the Federal Work Study (FWS) program. Both programs provide more than job opportunities that can help you pay for school - students also learn professional skills, refine their career goals, and gain work experience. FWS is a federal employment program with limited funding, so early submission of your FAFSA application is necessary. Work study recipients will have their eligibility listed on their financial aid award letter. Regular student employment does not require a FAFSA application.

Federal Student Loans are funds that must be repaid by the student. Loan eligibility is based on class level and will be offered on your award letter. Students have the option to reduce or cancel unwanted loans online using STARS.
