Course Description and Objective

During this course, we will explore the basic structure, function, and processes of American government and politics. Primarily we will focus on national politics and government. Topics we will explore include the Constitution, public opinion, elections, political parties, interest groups, Congress, presidency, courts, domestic and foreign policy. We will seek to understand some of the implications that the current structure, function, and processes of government have on our society and how we in turn influence the government. We will exercise our critical thinking skills by analyzing important problems and questions that are relevant to our lives. This course, hopefully, will make us better-informed residents and citizens by giving us a greater understanding of our role in government.

Expectations

We should attend all scheduled classes, so that we can use that time to help each other understand the material and practice our critical thinking skills. We should read the assigned material so that we have the same information available for our discussions in class. We should participate as much as we feel comfortable in class so that we can all gain an understanding of different perspectives.

Attendance/Participation/Reading

Our attendance is important for others to gain a different perspective and for us to understand the material and practice our critical thinking skills.

I award points for attendance and excused absences. For excused absences, you must email me the excuse. Just let me know if it was for sickness, a personal or family emergency, or university event.

For each day, take a name trifold and place it in front of you. This will allow me to count you present for the day.

Fridays (Online)

There will be an online assignment every Friday. It will be due by the following Monday's class period. Usually this will be a reading and a discussion question and will count towards your attendance. Read the document/article and then post a discussion question. You will also be required to choose one other person to reply with a comment on their post. Please be respectful at all times, especially when you disagree.

Writing Exams / Papers

Each assignment will be 3-5 pages long (double spaced; Times New Roman; 1 inch margins; name, course title, semester, and professor's name at the top). The assignment will be to answer 2-3 essay questions and possibly other short answer questions. These will be take home assessments. You can use your notes or any resource you need. No plagiarism allowed. There will be five possible grades for these: 100, 90, 80, 70, 0.

Accommodations

If you have a physical and/or financial difficulty, please feel welcome to come and talk to me during office hours or set up an appointment through email or phone so that we can discuss the best accommodation to ensure that you can do your best in the classroom.

It is imperative that you take the initiative to bring such needs to the instructor's attention, as he/she is not legally permitted to inquire about such particular needs of students.
