Mentor's Note

It is a pleasure to present to you these fine student conductors. The concert today is a culmination of four weeks of preparation consisting of score study, rehearsal, and individual consultation. The students have shown tremendous growth in the areas of gesture, aural skills, artistry and leadership. I hope you will notice the effect of each conductor's personal style on the ensembles.

It has been rewarding to observe this effective collaboration of conductor, ensemble and pianist and especially to experience the willing spirit of cooperation demonstrated by the University Singers and Concert Choir. Pianist Ben Harris' nurturing support at the keyboard has been invaluable.

I wish the student conductors a fine experience and hope you enjoy tonight's performance.

Sincerely,

Dr. James Stegall
Director of Choral Activities
Western Illinois University
