						F	= 0.00

Q: I entered Western under a catalog before Fall 2010, so does Plus/Minus grading apply to me?

A: Yes, Plus/Minus will be in effect for all undergraduates beginning Fall 2010.

Q: How will Plus/Minus grading affect my previous grades?

A: Grades received prior to the implementation of Plus/Minus grading will remain as they were originally earned. The honor points and GPA associated with those grades will remain the same as well. Plus/Minus grading will only apply to grades earned beginning Fall 2010.

Q: How will Plus/Minus grading affect my academic standing?

A: The current GPA thresholds utilized at the University level to determine academic status will remain the same. You may refer to the Student Academic Progress section of the undergraduate catalog for specific GPA requirements. Please note that GPA thresholds currently defined as a grade of C or B are considered the basic form of those letter grades: C = 2.0 and B = 3.0.

Q: How will Plus/Minus grading affect course prerequisites or program requirements based on GPA?

A: Existing thresholds currently defined as a grade of C or B are considered the basic form of those letter grades: C = 2.0 and B = 3.0.

Q: How will the transcript be changed to reflect Plus/Minus grading?

A: A notation will be made on the transcript indicating that the University adopted Plus/Minus grading for undergraduate students effective Fall 2010.

Q: Will Plus/Minus grading apply to all students at WIU?

A: Plus/Minus grading has been approved at the undergraduate level, but not at the graduate level. Therefore, Plus/Minus grading will apply to undergraduate courses only. Whether a student is a graduate student or an undergraduate, the student will earn a grade from the Plus/Minus grade scheme if s/he takes an undergraduate course.

Q: What if I take a 400(G) course?

A: 400-level courses that can be taken for undergraduate credit or graduate credit must use the Plus/Minus grade scheme for undergraduate credit and the basic letter grade scheme (A, B, C, ...) for graduate credit. Just as the syllabus reflects different requirements for the two levels of the course, the syllabus should clearly state the specific grade scheme that will be used for evaluating undergraduate level (Plus/Minus) and graduate level (basic letter) work.

Q: I'm in an integrated degree program (baccalaureate + master's). What about bridge (B) courses?

A: Students in integrated degree programs who are taking a 400(B) course will have Plus/Minus grading apply. Students in integrated degree programs who are taking a 500(B) or 600(B) course will not have Plus/Minus grading apply.

Q: Are faculty members required to use Plus/Minus grading in undergraduate classes once Plus/Minus grading is implemented?

A: Yes. The Plus/Minus grading system identified above was approved as official university policy and, once fully implemented, is required for all undergraduate level coursework.
